

THE JAMES FAMILY

SERVING IN WALES

We have been back in America several months now. While we're gone, ministry continues in Wales. We were thrilled to learn that the school Samuel attended joined in the Easter Cracked program. This is a program for 5th graders to learn about Easter and what Jesus did for us. We have been trying for several years to get this school to come, but it has never happened until this year. While I'm thrilled that they attended, I'm sad that we weren't able to be there.

Samuel's school hosted a multicultural night, and while we're not actually Welsh, he wanted to represent Wales. We served Welsh cakes and got to tell so many people about this beautiful country. We laughed because even though we were around tables representing India, South Africa, Vietnam, and China to name a few, we were told that we were the exotic table because it was so different.

In February, our former MAPS worker, Riley, got married in Florida. Welsh friends flew to attend, and after we attended with them, we invited them back to Texas with us. We took them to see the longhorns in Ft Worth, the 6th Floor Museum, and a rodeo. On Sunday, Peg, whom I call my Welsh daughter, went to services with us and got to share about Wales and ministry there. Please continue to pray for the ministry that continues while we are gone and for those who are doing the work.
